

You Can Be as Free as You're Willing to See

If you serve only yourself, you serve nothing.

If you cling only to yourself, you hold nothing.

If you hunger for the approval of others, you starve for nothing.

If you wish to please only yourself, you please nothing.

If you have only possessions as pleasures, you have nothing.

If you strive only to amass wealth, you count for nothing.

If you are wise only in the ways of this world, you have learned nothing.

If your heart beats only for yourself, you live for nothing.
