

Where There Is Love There Is No Death

Though difficult to see because of our social and religious conditioning that compels us to seek security outside of us, in a time to come, or in some god that's imagined dwelling somewhere above us, nevertheless, it is possible to awaken from this dream and realize the truth that sets us free:

The Peace we seek is not separate from what we are already created to be: a silent witness to a Timeless Kingdom that is always, and forever being made New. Awakening to see this Divine possibility as it unfolds within us—and we within it—grants us, as follows, the glimpse of an order of liberation beyond imagination:

We are created to be the incarnation of a ceaseless Divine relationship wherein, for the sacrifice of self it requires, we realize the truth that sets us free: Where there is Love, there is no death.

— Guy Finley