

A SINGLE PRACTICE THAT OPENS THE DOOR TO SELF-REALIZATION

Every reaction identified with—regardless its nature—serves to validate the lower level of consciousness responsible for its temporary creation.

While, on the other hand, every reaction quietly observed reveals—in the moment of that awareness—the existence of a higher, impersonal order of Being.

The conscious practice of this understanding creates the possibility of realizing a new, and fully independent level of Self that cannot be made a captive of any reaction...any more than the open sky can be overcome by the clouds that pass through it.

— Guy Finley