

REALIZE PERFECT STRENGTH BY NEVER FORGETTING THESE TWO FEAR-BUSTING FACTS

PART 1:

Much in the same way that darkness is the absence of light, meaning that darkness has no existence, let alone authority outside of the light that grants its temporary appearance...so is the following equally true:

Weakness is the absence of strength.

And just like Divine light that is everywhere and everlasting, so is Divine strength ever-present and more powerful than any transient condition imagined as being a challenge to it.

PART 2:

Nothing created has (a) weakness that isn't (already) married to a strength that fulfills its purpose. The only exception to this celestial law is found in an unconscious nature that imagines it has some strength of its own, and that -- for having become identified with the illusion of this false image -- lives in constant fear of anything that comes along to challenge its dream.

— Guy Finley